

The top row of images shows four different hydroponic setups. From left to right: a fern growing in a nutrient film system; a leafy green plant growing in a nutrient film system; a plant growing in a deep water culture system; and a diagram of a deep water culture system with numbered labels (1-6) indicating the plant, growing medium, nutrient solution, and other components.